MOST RELIABLE OF PURSUITS

Returns from Mining Industry Far Exceed All Others

Mining is no more a gamble than is the purchase of real estate. If your business of the country is good your real estate stands a chance of increase. On the other hand, more money has been sunk in the purchase of boom real estate than all the mines of the world cost.

More money has been lost within a square mile in New York business pursuits than has been lost in the development of all the mines of the West.
The memory of the business failures remains only by inspection of old books. The prospector's mound of rocks stands forever.

And so it is with almost every business except mining. Mining is the only business today that is absolutely beyond the reach of competition and monopolies. The man who gets his wealth out of Mother Earth fears no competition. His gold is always worth the same, and his wealth not only makes him richer, but it makes the world richer.

According to statistics, mining for gold, silver and copper is our most profitable industry; it is the only one open to small investors that is beyond the grasp of competition and monopoly.

There are only four vocations that offer opportunities for the rapid gaining of wealth, namely, railroading, banking, manufacturing and mining.
Successful railroad investors are few banking attracts only the conservative element, and manufacturing requires a heavy investment of capital.
Mining alone offers to the man with $100 to $1,000 the same chance in proportion to the amount invested as the man with $100,000; the opportunity to double, treble and sometimes increase one hundred fold his original investment. The mining industry can truly boast of the world's richest men, the best paid men, the best paid employes and the most successful investors.

The census of 1900 gives the average return per man engaged in mining precious metals as $1,910; in manufacturing, $754; in lumber saw-mills, etc. $425; and in agriculture, $235.

The records prove further that the gold mines pay more dividends than all the banks in the United States and the copper mines pay more dividends than all the railroads, although much less capital is invested in the mines.

The following statistics show the advantages of investments in stocks in gold mining properties over investments in the stock of industrials in the United States:

Mining companies with $700,108,139 issued stocks have paid $2,089,799,543 in dividends; while industrials with $1,368,556,250 stocks issued have only paid $495,559,825 in dividends.

COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT.

A Nevada Photographer Goes After His Right

Fred Dann, the Reno photographer, intends to take steps to stop a San Francisco publishing house from appropriating the pictures that he has taken of Nevada scenes and Indians.

Recently he photographed and had printed upon postal cards pictures of various interesting places in Reno, including photographs of Indians and papoooses.

One of the Indian pictures was very promptly appropriated by the Edward H. Mitchell Company of San Francisco who is flooding the country with it.

Mr. Dann, has served notice upon several Reno firms that they would have to stop sale of this picture as it was an infringement upon his copyright.

"I intend to bring action against this San Francisco house," said Mr. Dann.
"The papoose picture is the best seller I have and my business has been seriously damaged by its duplication.
I can't understand the unfair methods of the Mitchell people. My pictures were copyrighted and the word 'copyright' appears plainly upon the Indian picture which they appropriated.

"They are only liable civilly for damages but inasmuch as they have violated the copyright laws they can be prosecuted criminally.

"I not only intend to make them stop all their sales and recall the pictures they have sent out but will compel them to make a restitution."

Mr. Dann says that he has worked up a splendid sale throughout the west upon his card pictures and that he cannot afford to allow his business to be ruined by unscrupulous imitators.

Silver Peak a $4 Camp

Recently 150 miners at Silver Peak struck for $4 a day. They had been receiving $3.50, and were paying $39 a month for board and lodgings. Under the new schedule, they receive the $4 asked for and pay $10 a month for board.

While the men are compelled to pay for board over two-thirds of what they have added to their pay, their victory is highly important, as they have made Silver Peak a "four dollar camp," the aim of the Union all over the State. As extensive operations are soon to begin at Silver Peak the victory is one of considerable importance.
